

How to Apply for an NLM Traveling Exhibition

The goal of NLM Traveling Exhibitions is for libraries to highlight, showcase, integrate and share NLM's health information resources with their audiences, communities, patrons, and colleagues while hosting an NLM traveling banner exhibition.

An NLM traveling exhibition provides a point of reference for engaging with NLM health information resources and integrating them into the exhibition hosting experience. Applications should include a plan to incorporate the use of specific NLM biomedical and health information resources while hosting an exhibition. A successful application will a) provide details on how a host venue plans to incorporate these resources, b) identify specific NLM health information resources to be featured, and c) describe how a host venue will facilitate access and use of these resources.

There are seven sections to the application:

Section 1: Administrative Information:

Provide your institution's name, mailing address and primary and secondary contact information.

Section 2: Identify Specific Audiences and Populations Served:

Select those audiences and populations that will be served by your proposed programs or activities.

Section 3: Program Description:

Describe proposed programming that will highlight NLM health information resources and be sure to identify what NLM health information resources will be featured. Include proposed methods to facilitate access and use of NLM health information resources.

Section 4: Promotion Outcomes:

Describe how your promotion of the traveling exhibition and planned activities will raise awareness of NLM as a trusted source of reliable health information.

Section 5: Institutional Support/Partnerships:

Describe the support that will be provided by your institution or external partners, such as your RML (Regional Medical Library), local organizations, etc. Please identify any internal and external partners.

Section 6: Booking Period Preferences:

Please indicate your first, second and third preferences for dates to host the exhibition.

Section 7: Submissions and Announcements:

Provides deadlines and information release dates.
